DISCRIMINATION/ MINORITY GROUPS (cont'd)	Joy 0603-88 Jim McCellan interviews pat Krone, Director of Orange County External Affairs for Pacific Bell, and Ho Yong Chung, Agent for State Farm Insurance, and Chairman of Public Relations for the Korean Chamber of commerce. Krone and Chung, both members of the Minority Business Council, they discuss with Jim the problems minorities face in Orange County, California. They point out that there is discrimination by elements in the community, including the business community, toward minorities. They mention that such discrimination may stem from handicaps in communication and understanding cultures of such groups. Old feelings of bigotry often are without basis. Mr. Chung feels that the solution can be achieved in cooperative action with civic, business, and social groups, each adjusting to the differences in others.	Net	PA/O	06-03-88 6:30 a.m.	56:48
	Praise The Lord 0602-88 Jan and Paul discuss racial discrimination against blacks with Jester Hairston, composer, arranger and television personality. Hairston, 86 years old, shares an historical background of his climb from the grandson of slaves to a Tufts University graduate, presently playing the role of the deacon on "Amen", a television sitcom. Enduring unbelievable instances of prejudice and racial discrimination through the years, his optimistic outlook on the hope that one day there will be no prejudice shown on the basis of the color of one's skin may one day be achieved. Acclaimed in many circles, sent abroad as a goodwill ambassador for the United States, recognized for his musical ability, especially in arranging negro spirituals, Hairston has received six honorary doctorates in recognition of his outstanding ability. He smiles at ways insults are yet heaped on black people, but he hopes for a better day.	Net	PA/O	06-02-88 10:00p.m	1.59.48

EDUCATION/SCHOOLS (cont'd)	states that the organization's purpose is to attract students to schools that are mostly black to desegregate them. Many of these schools in black communities have trouble drawing white students and students of other races. The Magnet program tries to institute excellent learning programs in these schools so that parents of other students, as well as the educational staffs will put their kids into these schools. It's an effort not only to desegregate the schools, but to increase the academic standards of the schools.
GROWTH/POPULATION	Joy 0518-88 Jim McClellan interviews John Simon, Attorney and Coordinating Director of the law firm Sheppard, Mullin, Richter, and Hampton of Newport Beach. Simon, Chairman of "Citizens of Traffic Solutions" and Chairman of "No on A", a growth restriction initiative. He discusses with Jim reasons why such a petition should not be passed, one being that no one has the right to try and control the population and that we are only producing 18,000 units/year. He feels the alternative and the solution is to build roads, and use car-pooling in a significant way.	Net	PA/O	05-18-88 6:30 a.m.	56:48
	Joy 0517-88 Councilman Dave Wheeler, local attorney and co-writer for the "A" initiative discusses with Jim McClellan his reasons for promoting the passage for this California petition. The "A" initiative, a bill to be voted on in the June 7 Orange County election, is designed to slow development and building until such time as traffic solutions are enacted. Wheeler says no one wants to stop growth, but the rising tide of public opinion is there is a need to plan growth in order that freeways and services will be adequate for the growth. This infrastructure would be in place to handle the increase in population and housing.	Net	PA/O	05-17-88 6:30 a.m.	56:48

Hosts Esther and Bill Illnisky introduce a segment on the growth rate in South Florida. Today's guest is Oliver Kerr, Planner of "Population Trends On Our Economy" for the Metro-Dade Planning Department. Kerr says that Florida has the 4th largest growth rate in the U.S., and that our road infrastructure has failed to keep up with the pace. He describes the traffic congestion problems on Interstate 95 (I-95) that Dade and Broward county residents must contend with. He says that the traffic is a direct result, not of construction, but of urban growth. One-third of the state's population resides in south Florida. He discusses the various groups making up our population, with most being over 30 years of age and, in Miami, 4 out of 10 residents are foreign born. He also discusses the need for the labor force to keep up with the rapid growth by providing enough trade and service jobs.

Jim McClellan interviews Tom Fortune, Public Affairs Officer for the Orange County Transportation Commission. He addresses the congestion problem. The Commission works with the federal government on spending the gasoline taxes for improving freeways. They are currently negotiating to expand California's I-5, one of the most highly congested, into a twelve lane freeway. In looking for solutions, expanding the lanes seems hopeful, as well as targeting businesses to institute carpooling systems. As far as California's smog problem, they hope to enlist the South Coast Air Quality Management to become a partner with the Transportation Commission in diminishing the smog. An effort is being made to prohibit large trucks on the freeway during the rush hour.

TRANSPORTATION/ FFIC (cont'd)	Joy 0608-88 Jim McClellan discusses some of the transportation problems of Orange County, California with Robin Bishop, Community Affairs Officer of Orange County Transportation Commission. Robin lists some of the options citizens have in solving the congested freeways and lack of transportation such as: 1)car pooling. A regulation going into effect in 1990 puts the responsibility on employers of large companies to insist and regulate car pooling of their employees;2)bus transportation;3)bicycling;4)or working a ten hour day and taking a day off. The issue has become one of such proportions that all agencies and Orange County citizens will of necessity need to work out solutions.	Net	PA/O	06-08-88 6:30 a.m.	56:48
YOUTH	Miami Praise the Lord 0513-88 One of today's guests is Walden Owen of Youth With A Mission (YWAM) who talks with Clifford and Nedda Horvath about the ministry. YWAM involves young people on the mission field, having 200 workers and 1,000 tributaries on the seven boats they use to bring the message of the gospel. Youth With A Mission reaches out world-wide to villages where there are no schools or medical care. Currently they are striving to meet the need by constructing a hospital boat. '88, the student congress on evangelism in Washington D.C. that last year drew 17,000 teenagers and kids. He points out that it is a hurting world for young people who often lack support from home. 80% of the teens Conrad works with are from single-parent homes. 	Carlton Pearson moderates a panel discussion of street gangs and the crimes they commit. Panelists: Detective David Cortes, Miami Police; Walter Shaw, outreach to street youth; Anthony Johnson, former gang member. Detective Cortes states there is an increase in Miami gangs, and they have tracked these gangs with ties to gangs in northern cities of the U.S. As for age, they are made up largely of teenagers and younger, but do range up to 30 years. Both lower and upper income youth are involved. Their crime usually begins with low-risk robberies. Tom Martinez, Director of Teens Guide For Life , tells how his organization works with courts in rehabilitating them. They discuss runaway problems and gang techniques. They seek to show alternatives to such a lifestyle.			07-11-88 12:30 pm	28:45

	Jim McClellan interviews Ray and Robin Velez, former prison inmate and gang leader. Ray gives details of how he got involved in crime, but his praying mother kept him from murder. They point out the overwhelming evidence that a home without a father, as Ray's was, or a divorced home, with various stepfathers, as Robin's was, helps drive youth to drugs and crime. Ray's life turned around when a friend helped him to get a job and into Teen Challenge, a drug and alcohol rehabilitation facility. Ray is presently founder and director of Teen Outreach in Pomona, California.

Pat Robertson introduces a feature on crime, and he highlights the fact that single-parent homes seem to have a high ratio of their youth involved in crime. It appears that the single-parent family structure contributes more to juvenile delinquency and later, crime, rather than coming from poverty or being in a minority group. John DeDakis tells of a citizen group in St. Louis where neighbors have begun to watch out for each other. Pat interviews Daniel Van Ness, President of Justice Fellowship and author of Crime and Its Victims. Van Ness contends that attacking crime and poverty alone is hopeless. Reform must take place in the homes and neighborhoods. He urges churches to get involved, as well as communities and neighborhoods.

Pat Robertson introduces a report on gang violence, mentioning that gangs of today are more ruthless than gangs of the past, and commit more crimes, as well as deal drugs. In Los Angeles, just this year, 150 people have been killed by deliberate gang activity. The gang activity has now spread over the country and is now in over 50 cities. Two rival gangs, the Crips and the Bloods, have spread to Portland. Pat interviews Sonny Arguinzoni, former gang member and heroin addict. He says gangs today are more dangerous than 20 years ago because they now fight with automatic weapons instead of knives. In their drug dealing, they use eight and nine year olds as runners, and so protect themselves.

Jim McClellan interviews Louis Lapidès, minister of "Beth Ariel Fellowship", a Messianic fellowship. Discussing the anti-semitism that is beginning to be more evident, Lapidès targets the KKK, other neo-nazi groups and other anti-semitic groups. He points out that such groups were seperate from the church in the past, they are presently being seen among many church groups. One such group is called the "Christian Identity Movement." They denigrate blacks in repulsive ways. He says these radicals are pocket movements, but there are thousands of closet racists on their mailing lists. Their doctrines include such statements as Jesus was not Jewish, the Jews are anti-Christ.

Morton says that crack cocaine is a take off from "base cocaine" and is psychologically and physically addictive. Addison says that crack cocaine is not a mentionless crime and should be dealt with by the Christian community. Commander Morton says that the wide usage of crack is in part because of its low price, the danger is in its high addiction. The "high" is instant, but only lasts seven minutes, it is immediately followed by a deep depression so that a constant supply is needed.

	Host Michael Utterback interviews Nancy Solliday of Church on the Rock. Nancy shares the story of how she overcame an addiction to drugs. While she was in design school in Miami, she fell in love with her boss and had all the worldly things. All her friends did cocaine and alcohol, Nancy became hooked. That lifestyle did not make her as happy as she had thought. Still, she spent $1,000 dollars a month on cocaine and did some small time dealing of drugs. One morning, she woke up totally delivered and set free from drugs. She thought she had accomplished this task on her own. She later realized that God wrought the change in her life, and only He could instantly take away the desire for drugs and alcohol.

	Hal Lindsey interviews Duncan Hunter, Congressman of the 45th district. A member of the House Arms Service Committee and a member of a select committee on narcotics, Congressman Hunter shares with Hal some of the efforts of government to stop the gigantic flood of cocaine being smuggled into this country across the borders. The smugglers are able to use the most sophisticated planes to fly in at night with their lights off. Federal agents are using high-tech radar planes to spot them and are beginning to intercept some of the drug flow. Much more vigilance, personnel, and equipment are needed to slow the heavy flow of illegal drugs. He contends that Cuba, Panama, and Nicaragua are heavily involved in the traffic.

He gives a few principals, one of the most important being to begin very early in teaching the child about drugs. He mentions that parents are the essential figures in helping their children win the war on drugs. They must be models for the children. They must know their children's friends, and find activities to occupy them in meaningful pursuits instead of having too much leisure time. Don't be afraid to seek help.

Commander James Simpson of the U.S. Coast Guard in Florida says that the U.S. is losing this war on drugs. He says it has become an international business worth more than 500 billion dollars. The drug cartel in Columbia has grown powerful; it is responsible for all the cocaine that enters the U.S. The coast Guard lacks the manpower to stop it from coming in. Drug profits underwrite terrorists activities and also corrupt officials. Paul Eddy, author of The Cocaine Wars , points out that the powerful cartel in Columbia, with the cooperation of corrupt officials in Miami, make it impossible to stop the traffic. He points out that half the homicides in America were drug related (10,000).

Jim McClellan interviews Mary louise Burgess, president of Mothers Against Drunk Drivers (MADD) about some of the goals and methods they use to reach their goals. To them the most important is to make the public aware of the need for changing laws. They feel that the key to change is legislation. They say all parents should be aware if their young people are drinking. She mentions that one person dies every 23 minutes because of drunk drivers, and 67% of the insurance dollars go to drunk driving accidents. She points out that the advertising industry has made drinking too appealing and glamorous.

Jim McClellan interviews Eric Buehrer, President of Citizens for Excellence in Education. The main thrust of his organization is to organize parents to get involved in their local school districts, and contribute their own input. He mentions that a special report and packet has just been made available to school systems, is endorsed by the National Education Association called "Proejct 10". It is a homosexual counseling program, encouraging the homosexual students not to drop-out, to seek the general counseling centers available to help them. (It is already implemented in the Fairfax High School in Los Angeles). They will give the gay/lesbian hotline which has stories by young children extolling the values of homosexuality. Parents have a right to know what their children are being exposed to, so parents must ask.
